

Final Remarks

The claims have been amended to more clearly define the original elements of the application as to patentable subject matter. The amended claims have been shown to contain elements providing function lacking in the cited art, and the cited art teaches away from the structure and function provided by applicant's claimed device. As such all claims should now be allowable.

Should the Examiner have any further questions or concerns the Examiner wishes to address by Examiner's amendment by telephone or otherwise, or should the Examiner have suggestions to more clearly define the subject matter of the claims to more clearly define the patentable subject matter, the Applicant's attorney would be most receptive to such.

Respectfully submitted,
